

Story starter!

The heavy door of the cage swung shut and the iron bars echoed fiercely around. Menacing ravens circled around, their eyes transfixed on the trapped prisoner. How did she end up in this position?

There was nobody around to help her. Barren land stretched as far as the eye could see. If she was to escape, she had to do it herself. But how? Did she wait? Did she run? What would happen to her if she did escape from the cage?

Perfect picture!

Can you draw another human being held captive by a different animal? Would there be a different cage? Would there be a different surrounding? Would the mood of the human change because of the animal that is keeping them prisoner?

